

The First Call - Maritime Medical Support

TheFirstCall at the International Centre for Emergency Medicine delivers maritime medical advice, decision support, onshore medical logistics, training and medical supplies to yachts throughout the world.

The Doctors at the Emergency Department of Aberdeen Royal Infirmary, a leading teaching and research hospital, and an internationally recognised centre of medical excellence, are at the forefront of caring for people who fall ill or are injured at sea all over the world.

Our Services

24/7 Medical Advice

When medical advice is required you will have direct access to our experienced doctors.

Our Medical Team

Our doctors are at the forefront of caring for people who fall ill or are injured at sea.

Clinical Expertise & Research

Aberdeen's maritime medicine team, who provide the service, are the world leaders in this field.

Full Range of Services

24/7 medical advice, general medical services, information services and medical training.

Evidence based Medicine

Tailoring medical support to save lives

With today's explosion of medical research and knowledge, it is difficult for doctors working out with teaching hospitals to keep abreast of the latest developments in medical care. This creates a chasm between what is known and what is being applied to patients. Our leading teaching hospital-based doctors are fully conversant with recent medical developments and the latest research evidence in pre-hospital care. As part of an internationally designated medical rescue centre, TheFirstCall will combine this evidence with your requirements to provide a tailored solution for your individual needs.

THE FIRSTCALL.COM